v1.2.5-d33p57a7u5 .A new long-term monitoring method for rodents using telemetry.

This paper describes a new
for rodents that involves implanting a small transmitter of a new generation into rodents. Radioactivity in the transmitter and implanted transponder provides a means of locating and tracking the rodent. This method can be used to study many aspects of behaviour, physiology and the environment that influence survival, health and longevity. By following the transmitter, the total time and location of each individual can be obtained. The potential uses of this new technology are illustrated by a study of normal male life history and the basis of decreased male life expectancy observed in some rodent models of cancer, diabetes, septic shock and chronic wasting disease. We got a big surprise from Apple today when it announced that its highly-anticipated (and finally released) iPhone Xs and Xs Max had big-time upgrades over the previous-generation iPhone X that debuted last September. It just didn't take a year for Apple to get better.

According to Apple, the iPhone Xs and Xs Max's new A12 Bionic 1cdb36666d
